

The background image is a vibrant street scene in a European town, likely in the Italian Alps. On the left, a white building with red shutters and flower boxes on the balconies lines the street. On the right, a yellow building with wooden balconies and flower boxes is visible. In the center background, a tall white church tower with a green spire rises above the rooftops. The sky is blue with scattered white clouds. In the foreground, a wooden planter box is filled with a dense arrangement of blue, red, and yellow flowers.
